THE PPSR

The Personal Property Securities Register (PPSR) is an Australian Government national online register of security interests in goods and other personal property which is regularly used by buyers, sellers and financiers.

Buyers can check the PPSR to see if the valuable second-hand goods they want to buy are debt-free and safe from repossession. This includes goods such as machinery, equipment, vehicles and stock. Doing a search to check before you buy is low cost, easy and immediate.

Businesses selling on terms, such as retention of title, or leasing out valuable goods should consider registering their interest on the PPSR. Registering an interest in goods which a business hasn't yet received payment for can help it recover the debt should a customer not pay or become insolvent.

Anyone can use the PPSR. It is accessible online 24/7 and search results are immediate. Fees are minimal to conduct a search and to register a security interest in goods or other forms of personal property.

WHAT IS PERSONAL PROPERTY?

Personal property generally includes all forms of property other than land, buildings and fixtures.

Common examples of personal property are goods such as machinery, cars, boats, crops, livestock and equipment. It also includes intangible items, such as intellectual property, and financial property, such as shares.

IS THIS NEW?

The Personal Property Securities Register is now the single, national register of security interests in personal property in Australia.

The PPSR replaced all Commonwealth, state and territory registers of security interests in personal property, such as the New South Wales Register of Encumbered Vehicles (REVs), and the ASIC Register of Company Charges and many more, including the registers of bills of sales and stock mortgages. About five million existing state and territory registrations were transferred to the new national register when it commenced on 30 January 2012.
